PwC Azerbaijan's Formula 1 Marshals Team participated in the Azerbaijan Grand Prix 2022

On 10-12 June 2022, Baku hosted the 6th annual Formula 1 race at Baku City Circuit track. From the first year, the PwC Azerbaijan has been participating as Marshals Team at this important for our country event. This year in the Azerbaijan Grand Prix 2022 took participation 51 PwC marshals, showing the well-coordinated work and professional approach of our team. Inara Namaliyeva, the head of PwC Azerbaijan's Human Capital department, as in previous years, took leadership of Sector 1. Every year Inara shows great professionalism and amazing energy by leading PwC Azerbaijan marshals' team. Head of PwC Azerbaijan's IT, Namig Hajiyev, participated as a technical scrutineer in 2022 Azerbaijan Grand Prix.

Our marshals were in charge of the most responsible positions in Sector 1, which included important turns of the track, as well as the start-finish point, which is the most important point in the race.

PwC Azerbaijan marshals' team was always ready to help. So during the final lap of Formula 2, one of the drivers, Calan Williams, was pushed by other drivers into a wall, which led to a massive crash. Due to the well-coordinated work of our marshals and a professional approach, Calan was quickly helped and provided with first medical aid.

Our marshals were also in the middle of the action when the race leader, Charles Leclerc from the Ferrari team, had to stop the race when smoke was seen pouring from the back of his car near Sector 1. Our marshals were at their outgoing points to assist, but he managed to exit the track and get to his Ferrari team.

"Every year the F1 gives us a fantastic opportunity to challenge ourselves, show our team spirit, support each other and the whole country in holding such a calibre of events. It's an amazing experience for us as we are happy to demonstrate true PwC Values and Purpose in real time", said PwC Azerbaijan's Chief of Marshalls, Inara Namaliyeva.
